

July 11, 2011

Grant H. Gravitt Jr.
Executive Producer
Miss Florida USA

Dear Mr. Gravitt,

I hope this message finds you well. As you may remember, I made a personal appeal on PETA's behalf in 2009 asking that Miss Florida USA no longer use real furs as prizes, and I'm absolutely thrilled to hear the recent news that this year's winner will not receive a mink coat. As you can see in the video I hosted for PETA (at peta.org/tv), minks and other animals on fur farms are crammed into wire cages that prevent them from taking more than a few steps in any direction, and they often go insane and resort to self-mutilation and cannibalism—all before they have their necks broken or are anally or vaginally electrocuted. Thank you for making the kind decision to forgo furs as prizes and sending the message to other pageants and people everywhere that there's nothing glamorous about the way that animals suffer and die in the fur industry.

Kind regards,

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "Tim Gunn". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, sweeping arch over the first name.

Tim Gunn