

Chickens: Our Fascinating Feathered Friends!

Just like cats, dogs, and humans, chickens feel love, fear, joy, and sadness. They like lying in the warm sun. This is called "sunbathing". They also spend a lot of time cleaning themselves. This is called "grooming".

In this activity, you will learn more about the lives of chickens. Use a dictionary to look up the 15 chicken-related words below. Then use the words to fill in the blanks in the sentences below.

bathe
beaks
chick combs
eggs

feathers
hen
jungles
nest
pecking order

preen
roost
rooster
spurs
wattles

1. A male chicken is called a rooster.
2. A female chicken is called a hen.
3. A baby chicken is called a chick.
4. Hens lay eggs.
5. Roosters have pointed spurs on their legs to help protect their families and themselves from anyone who might try to harm them.
6. Chickens' skin is covered with feathers.
7. Chickens use their beaks to eat, learn about objects, protect themselves, hold things, and groom themselves.
8. Chickens don't like getting wet so they use dirt to bathe. They do this by kicking and ruffling dirt through their feathers to remove bugs. It helps them stay nice and clean.
9. Chickens want to be beautiful, so they often preen themselves. They do this by fluffing their feathers out and using their beaks to removed damaged feathers and put protective oils on them.
10. When a chicken is about to lay eggs, she will build a nest.
11. Chickens in the wild come from the jungles of Southeast Asia.
12. At night, chickens like to roost in tree branches or on poles when they sleep.
13. A pecking order helps chickens get along with each other and prevents fighting.
14. When chickens are healthy and happy, the combs on the tops of their heads stand straight up.
15. Chickens who know and have been treated kindly by humans usually enjoy having their wattles stroked. Those are the flaps of skin underneath their beaks.

Note to Teacher: This activity sheet works well with the free video "Let's Ask the Animals" and the free comic "A Chicken's Life," which teach students more about chickens while reinforcing what they learned through this activity sheet. Both materials are available from TeachKind.org.

Chickens: Our Fascinating Feathered Friends!

Just like cats, dogs, and humans, chickens feel love, fear, joy, and sadness. They like lying in the warm sun. This is called "sunbathing". They also spend a lot of time cleaning themselves. This is called "grooming".

In this activity, you will learn more about the lives of chickens. Use a dictionary to look up the 15 chicken-related words below. Then use the words to fill in the blanks in the sentences below.

bathe
beaks
chick
combs
eggs

feathers
hen
jungles
nest
pecking order

preen
roost
rooster
spurs
wattles

1. A male chicken is called a _____.
2. A female chicken is called a _____.
3. A baby chicken is called a _____.
4. Hens lay _____.
5. Roosters have pointed _____ on their legs to help protect their families and themselves from anyone who might try to harm them.
6. Chickens' skin is covered with _____.
7. Chickens use their _____ to eat, learn about objects, protect themselves, hold things, and groom themselves.
8. Chickens don't like getting wet so they use dirt to _____. They do this by kicking and ruffling dirt through their feathers to remove bugs. It helps them stay nice and clean.
9. Chickens want to be beautiful, so they often _____ themselves. They do this by fluffing their feathers out and using their beaks to remove damaged feathers and put protective oils on them.
10. When a chicken is about to lay eggs, she will build a _____.
11. Chickens in the wild come from the _____ of Southeast Asia.
12. At night, chickens like to _____ in tree branches or on poles when they sleep.
13. A _____ helps chickens get along with each other and prevents fighting.
14. When chickens are healthy and happy, the _____ on the tops of their heads stand straight up.
15. Chickens who know and have been treated kindly by humans usually enjoy having their _____ stroked. Those are the flaps of skin underneath their beaks.

Note to Teacher: This activity sheet works well with the free video "Let's Ask the Animals" and the free comic "A Chicken's Life," which teach students more about chickens while reinforcing what they learned through this activity sheet. Both materials are available from TeachKind.org.