

Does
a tiger
in your tank
put a dog
in the grave?

The Iditarod dogsled race is an Arctic nightmare for dogs who are forced to pull heavy sleds for 1,000 miles in under two weeks through biting winds, blinding snowstorms, and subzero temperatures. Every year, hundreds of dogs are pulled out of the race because they're ill, injured, or too exhausted to go on. More than 150 have died as a result of the Iditarod, most often from aspiration pneumonia caused by inhaling their own vomit.

ExxonMobil is sponsoring this cruelty.

Take action at PETA.org/ExxonEvil.

PETA