Dear Dr. Morse:

We believe that the federal Animal Welfare Act violation documented in the attached U.S. Department of Agriculture inspection report and official warning posted against the University of Louisiana at Lafayette (UL Lafayette) constitutes a violation of the Public Health Service Policy on Humane Care and Use of Laboratory Animals (PHS Policy). Last year, UL Lafayette received $9,576,874 from the National Institutes of Health (NIH), and according to NIH, an estimated 47% of those funds supported projects that involved experiments on animals.

In 1985, members of Congress from both sides of the aisle worked together to strengthen protections for animals in laboratories in order to address deep-seated ethical concerns held by the American public regarding the use of animals in experiments. Polling by the Pew Research Center found that more than 50% of U.S. adults oppose the use of animals in experiments, and other surveys suggest that the support of the shrinking group that continues to accept animal experimentation is contingent on the existence and enforcement of stringent regulations aimed at protecting animals.

As you know, institutions that receive funding from Public Health Service agencies—including NIH—are required to comply with PHS Policy. Failure to comply violates not only federal animal welfare guidelines and policies but also public expectations that facilities receiving tax dollars to use animals—who are capable of experiencing pain, distress, love, and companionship and value their lives just as we value ours—at the very least, comply with minimal standards aimed at ensuring some modicum of animal welfare.

We ask that your office investigate the incidents outlined in the attached reports.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Alka Chandna, Ph.D.
